

Freelance Bid Writer

South West Grid for Learning Trust is looking for an experienced free-lance bid writer to work with our Online Safety team to develop and curate compelling bids for funders applicable to the work of the charity.

The successful candidate must:

- Be an excellent communicator
- Research, plan and answer written questions
- Proof read content
- Create relationships with our team internally
- Actively seek to learn, understand and grow their knowledge on the services the charity offers
- Have demonstrable experience and success in this area
- Have qualifications relevant to the role
- Desirable: knowledge in online safety

As a not-for-profit charitable Trust, SWGfL primarily works on behalf of schools, aiming to provide the best possible range of quality services to help schools, and other establishments, to use technology to both impacts positively on teaching and learning as well as their online safety.
